Communion

Come, friends, to this holy table,
Come to this special meal.

You are welcome in the name of God our parent, Jesus Christ our Savior, and the Holy Spirit, who inspires and challenges us.

With our hearts we thank you, God.

With our hearts we thank you, God.

With our lives we praise you, God.

With our lives we praise you, God.

Everywhere we look we see what you have made.

We love your world and its beauty.

We love the people you have given to us—to share our homes,
to be our family and friends.

We love to work, to play and rest.

We love to grow in knowing you better.

Thank you for every way you bless us.

Thank you for every way you bless us.

We are people who choose to follow Jesus
And so this morning we remember him.

Tell me about how you are following Jesus-

(leave space for sharing)

Today, at this table, we tell the story about the last night Jesus ate with his friends, how he held the bread, and broke the bread and handed it to them, saying, “when you eat this bread you share in my body, you are part of me.”

At the end of the meal he lifted up a cup of wine, and shared it with them, saying, “when you drink from this cup you share in my blood.
It shows God’s promise to you. It shows that you are precious and forgiven, no matter what.”

Here we are, the people of God, sharing around this holy table
In the body and blood of Jesus Christ.
May his life Spirit flow in us and make us his people. AMEN.

(Hand out bread, cup and grapes)

The bread of heaven, for the people of God.

Thanks be to God.

(everyone eats bread or has a grape)

The cup of salvation, for God’s beloved.

Thanks be to God.

(everyone drinks juice, or has a grape)

Thank you, God, for this meal, which feeds our bodies and our spirits.

Thank you, God.

May the bread and cup we have shared together, sustain us for your work of justice.

AMEN.
