The Sermon 11/1/26

This Sunday in worship we will engage the second to last of our series "What Jesus Means - A Spiritual Education.” We will explore the wild and unruly visit of Peter to the Roman Centurion Cornelius' house and bear witness with those in the story two thousand years of Christian saints, to what they/we are learning in the story.

The reading is Acts 10:22-36 and the theme is "Fraternizing with the Enemy." The sermon will explore just what it would have meant for Peter, as a faithful Jewish person of faith, to do what he did, and learn what he did. It was a world-changing event in Peter's life, the life of the church, and even the life of the world. I think we have the opportunity in our time to harvest fruit that has been ripening for two millennia. It's time to see, touch, taste, and feel the goodness of God's new world.

What will it be like for us to be swept up in the movement of the Spirit?

The Sermon 11/1/26

This Sunday in worship we will engage the second to last of our series "What Jesus Means - A Spiritual Education.” We will explore the wild and unruly visit of Peter to the Roman Centurion Cornelius' house and bear witness with those in the story two thousand years of Christian saints, to what they/we are learning in the story.

The reading is Acts 10:22-36 and the theme is "Fraternizing with the Enemy." The sermon will explore just what it would have meant for Peter, as a faithful Jewish person of faith, to do what he did, and learn what he did. It was a world-changing event in Peter's life, the life of the church, and even the life of the world. I think we have the opportunity in our time to harvest fruit that has been ripening for two millennia. It's time to see, touch, taste, and feel the goodness of God's new world.

What will it be like for us to be swept up in the movement of the Spirit?